SUMMARY

Troy Kotsur, from the film "CODA," reflects on the significance of fatherhood and the importance of spending quality time with family, especially on Father's Day. He emphasizes the lasting impact a father can have on a child's life and encourages others to cherish their relationships with their dads.

- Spend quality time with your father instead of traditional gifts like ties.
- A father's influence shapes who their children become.
- The importance of love and involvement in a child's life.
- Hope for children without father figures to find positive role models.
- Personal reflection on his own daughter nearing high school graduation.
- The realization of a father's sacrifices and teachings often comes later in life.
- Encourage children to view their fathers as heroes.
- A heartfelt message celebrating the bond between fathers and their children.

hi i'm troy kotzer from the movie coda i play the character of frank rossi happy father's day instead of buying your dad a tie this year i suggest spending quality time with your dad and the whole family my father was so important to me because he made me who i've become today and that's because of everything he taught me loving caring and really everything he was involved in my life and i was involved in his life too it was so important what my father did for those children who may not have a father figure i really hope that one day they'll have a father figure in their life that can show them love and that's why it's so important for those of you who have a father figure to spend quality time with them especially before your kids go out into the real world i have one daughter who's only 17 and there's just a year left before she graduates high school and and i'm the dad and i feel like crying like a baby letting her go maybe she's thinking yeah dad whatever but one day she's going to look back and realize and understand everything her dad did for her [Music] and that's what happened to me when i grew up looking back i realized it was so important what he did how he treated me and everything he taught me it's so important to let your kids look up to you as a dad and it's important because that makes them feel proud you want them to say hey that's my dad my dad is my hero i love you [Music] and happy father's day you
