SUMMARY

The speaker discusses the alarming decline of free speech, empathy, and individual autonomy in society, linking these issues to parenting practices that perpetuate compliance and fear. They argue that the oppressive patterns observed in the world today stem from how children are raised, emphasizing the need for conscious parenting to foster critical thinking and self-trust in future generations.

- There is a significant loss of free speech and empathy in society, with people afraid to express differing opinions.*
- Current societal structures reflect oppressive parenting styles that prioritize obedience and compliance over independent thought.*
- Many individuals were raised to seek external validation and fear authority, leading to a culture of silence and conformity.*
- The speaker advocates for a shift in parenting practices to break the cycle of oppression and raise more empowered children.*
- Conscious parenting is presented as a solution, encouraging parents to allow dissent and critical thinking in their children.*
- The speaker believes that societal change begins at home, and the evolution of the planet depends on the consciousness of parents.*
- Unhealed inner child issues contribute to the rise of tyrannical behaviors in adults, emphasizing the need for emotional healing.*
- The speaker calls for a movement towards conscious parenting to prevent the repetition of oppressive patterns in future generations.*

okay let's talk about what's happening in the world right now we are seeing a drastic loss of free speech people afraid to voice their opinions afraid of being shamed silenced and punished we're seeing a drastic loss of empathy and Humanity where people are so locked into their own ideologies and beliefs and righteousness that they cannot hold space for different realities we're seeing a drastic suppression of Free Will rules systems and expectations that are keeping people compliant of afraid to step out of the line and we're seeing a drastic inequity of power where a small group of people decide how the rest of us should think feel behave and live now pause for a second that sounds awfully familiar to me you know why because this isn't just a political or social issue my friends this is a parenting issue for Generations you see we have raised children inside a system that mirrors the very oppression we see in the world today think about how most of us were raised most of us were told how to think not encouraged to think for ourselves we were taught that obedience is good and questioning Authority is bad we were expected to be seen not heard because respect and compliance meant we would be loved we learned early that love came with conditions and approval if you behave you are going to be fine and you would be rejected if you crossed the line and so what did we do we adapted we learn to suppress our voice so that we stayed safe we learn to obey without question because pushing back LED to punishment we learned to accept power hierarchies in our lives because there was always someone above us controlling our every move and now look at the world we've created a world where people fear speaking their truth a world where we've divided ourselves instead of coming together and being connected a world where control has been disguised as protection the same way our parents said to us I'm doing this for your own good as they took away our autonomy governments institutions and corporations always say this is for your good your safety as they strip us off our freedom the system my friends is repeating itself because we were trained from childhood to comply to seek external validation to fear Authority and to trade authenticity for approval

this is all repeating itself and unless we break the cycle unless we raise our children differently we will keep repeating oppressive patterns the real Revolution doesn't start in the streets it's already too late it starts in the home with how we parent with how we teach our children to know their inner truth and we teach our children to trust themselves to speak up to think critically to honor their own truth

because if we want a different world we must raise a different kind of human that means we as parents need to be different we need to allow our children to dissent against us we need to allow our children to speak up against us you see but our egos are too big and this is why I teach conscious parenting so if you want to join me in the movement of conscious parenting and be an ambassador of its wisdom because I said this decades ago the evolution of the planet depends on the consciousness of the parent all of what's Happening Here is happening because of unconscious parenting that has taught our children to know their worth based on what they do and what they have and what they achieve that's why all of these people who are we who we now are calling tyrants and dictators they capitalize on others they dominate others they acquire and they take and they want more all of this started in the home if they felt good enough inside none of this would happen the common denominator is the unworthiness of the inner child all of this acting out on the outside comes from an inner child that is unprocessed and unhealed so will you join me on this path of spreading conscious parenting please join me I need more people who can help spread the word so that this never happens again so that at some some point our generational pain and patterns are healed so we do not do this to each other type the word coach if you want to join the movement
