SUMMARY

The speaker emphasizes the importance of establishing connections over corrections in teaching and personal interactions. Building a strong bridge of connection is essential for facilitating learning and fostering respect, as it allows for the transfer of knowledge and values.

- Connection is prioritized over correction in effective teaching methods.
- A strong connection serves as a bridge to facilitate learning and understanding.
- Without a connection, other skills and values cannot be effectively conveyed.
- Building connections is crucial before introducing academic or behavioral expectations.
- The concept of connection should be applied in everyday life for better interactions.
- Establishing a bridge of connection opens pathways for respect and knowledge transfer.

Miss P understood the power of building a bridge connection instead of Correction write that down connection instead of Correction I need y'all to have that right there right that that those two words right there connection correction connection correction is is very pivotal because this should be your teaching method this should be your teaching method connection instead of Correction see let me tell you the power of that connection Nothing Else Matters without that Bridge being born without that bridge being born built manufactured you can't bring any of the other skills across you say DJ hold on wait DJ wait wait what do you mean by that nothing else matters without a connection this is why before that bridge is built there is nothing once that bridge is built now I can turn around and go get academics and bring them back across this bridge once that bridge is built now I can turn around and go get respect and bring it back across this bridge before the bridge is built we could never have a connection make sure you take that power with you and you use that within your Every Day Life
