hi guys is you all move with my instagram twitter add facebook peers and i've been traveling and driving for over a month and there's a lot of shopping the view that I've actually done over the last one month the girls before I left requested specifically for a lot of two tools and that's what I've done ever made very very focused and just got enough enough stuff to please them so I'm going to take you to what would shop all through the last 30 days and here we go so this is q heel to toe which we picked up from Ferris and this is for after that she loves to tues and value leaders these are a pair of pants that I picked up from gap kids and because we were going on winter holiday I thought it'd be perfect there's slightly warm and I thought it goes really well with any color 40 which Anya will definitely like a couple of solid t-shirts a lovely dress this one especially was really nice and of course something somebody because a lot of stuff there was a lot of winter wear this was only the seven dollars and I have solutely love it it's got a little chain detailing at the back and then we picked up lots of skirts another tiered skirt and another tier its Kurt and another 22 apart with them she absolutely only wanted all of this and then this to do is Sonia and thus i got from H&M i think this is very slightly big for her but I know she loves it I'll be caught and Laura the link you know like warmers and and stockings because we were going again on a window holiday so this is a must-have I loved this pair of shorts and skirts together across code actually and this one's for Anya this stop is my absolute favorite is when I picked up from gap from baby gap and I think this is really sweet because you can again pair it with

Dylan's or white pants and I think it looked really good it's got little buttons at the back again this is just a casual dress but I think when worn i think is look really sweet then we've got some dresses again a little deer with a little bit of frill it is uppsala frills so a pink and blue in the same but I actually like something I kind of tend to pick them up in multiple colors I don't know why and this is a little frozen dress which we picked up from H&M it was a pack of 2 the best part about shopping for kids in the US is that everything is so cheap and everything comes in packs of two so you always tend to over shop I absolutely love these the sneakers are picked up for Africa my young one from

H&M and this is only for ten dollars this is like awesome and then of course these which I absolutely adored exactly damn cute and what else is we picked up I picked up leather lace tops for both of them because they love lace many hits a feminine and nice and you know it also goes well with a lot of things this one again a solid and kind of easy to blend with a lot of other stuff that they have and I was kind of in my head pairing the tutus with solid nude colors already so I thought it made a lot of sense this one is actually a steal it's from H&M and it's only for three dollars surprising and again another full sleeve but very soft cotton so you could probably user join the suburbs as well and this one is also really sweet I love this dress this niche dress the vcard and we got this from Paris and you can

of course layer it differently like we're a solid blue water purple and then again where if it's stockings and looks really really sweet or wear a turtleneck with it and it's very they are or when it's quite warm and last but what I have I absolutely love and this is one of their favors and it they've been dying to use it ever since I've been back is this fringe bag that I picked up from H&M it's just like pretending to be mommy and nothing with it they keep playing with an ads all the time so I thought why not just in a bag that they would properly possibly get him off my back so I said why not and this one is really nice because it was only for ten dollars and it's a color that will go well with any of their outfits so here's this lad from H&M um for me I kept it very simple I didn't want too many clothes weeks again I'm Lord the clothes were window where so I stuck to what I love most which is stationary accessories and one thing I absolutely love which is T so I got myself this teacup and lots of infused teas from mom from DC and you know this cup keeps the theme warm for about six hours which I absolutely love it I love to keep sipping on tea all the time and it's got a little through alright still so my team keeps complaining that i really am extremely forgetful so this is what I've got for myself a test LA pod with tips right here so they're keeping posted sometimes are even funny to remind me that these are the things that I'm supposed to complete during the day before I'm off because i work really crazy hours so this is an absolute must-have for me and i really like this paintbrush post ignore which i got for myself which is different between postage and i'm a sucker for stationary so i just wanted a comment in a way to hang this in office and get to start using this one the other thing i got myself was these highlighters which all kind of plug in together to pick up this little gingerbread man I think I thought this was damn cute and I got this from flying tigers it's a store in in New York and if you love stationery you're going to absolutely adored the store I also got some paper clips services Santa paper clips from flying tiger and there is really sweet and I got myself a new angel I know to sign for Christmas that I just a lovely little knickknacks for myself too so I really want to get this for myself to just hang it on my office desk so doesn't any angel and what else he beat yet and I like i said i love stationary and i love accessories

so I'm quite excited about the things that I bought myself one is this pink necklace which I I was really good and it's only for five dollars and the other one which I absolutely love and I can't wait to wear it is this green and gold neck piece ok so that's all of our shopping mall we did in New York Paris MDC if you love my videos don't forget to Like share subscribe and see if your
