SUMMARY

The "Setting Loving and Effective Limits Workshop" aims to help parents establish respectful boundaries with their children while fostering a collaborative and enjoyable relationship. Through eight concise modules, parents will learn to set fewer limits, understand their children's behaviors, and address their own needs for a more harmonious family dynamic.

- The workshop consists of eight modules, each taking about 15 minutes to complete.
- Parents will learn to set effective limits that their children will respect.
- The program emphasizes understanding the underlying needs driving children's difficult behaviors.
- Participants will also explore their own needs to improve personal well-being.
- The goal is to create a warm, fun, and collaborative relationship with children.
- Registration is free, with options for self-paced learning or guided support starting April 26th.
- The workshop aims to transform parenting from a directive approach to one focused on enjoyment and connection.
