Speaker 1: Hi, I'm a mother of an eight month old baby as you can see. And I got to know that the first year of baby's birth is so much important for their physical, not only physical but brain development. And I was wanting to know what can I do with him so that I can enhance the brain development and I can engage him in as many activities as I can. So when I started researching there was so much information on the Internet that I started getting confused more than ever and there were no problems available.

Speaker 1: Then I stumbled upon the Brainy Bear box by Get Set Parent with Pallavi which is specially designed for this age group of 0 to 12 months of age. And as I saw, the activities in the box cover all the senses for the baby, be it gross motor skills, be it fine motor skills, be it tactile skills, be it sensory, visual, everything is covered in the box majorly. The activities are very simple and engaging and it comes with an instruction manual and they're so simple that I can train my nanny, the grandparents of the baby or even the elder siblings as to how to do those activities and how to engage the baby with those activities.

Speaker 1: I would definitely recommend this box to every new parent who has a baby of 0 to 12 months of age. This box can easily be purchased online and I would like to thank Brainy Bear for making

Speaker 2: the first year count.
