

Voting Ink Facts #elections2024 #voting

1 MIN · YOUTUBE · HTTPS://WWW.YOUTUBE.COM/WATCH?V=YLB5S3FQW4W
<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=yLB5S3fQW4w>

SUMMARY

The speaker discusses the unique manufacturing process of the indelible ink used in Indian elections, highlighting its sole producer, Mysore Paints and Varnish. The ink is designed to be permanent and difficult to remove, prompting curiosity among children about its properties.

- The indelible ink is manufactured exclusively by Mysore Paints and Varnish.
- It is used by the Election Commission of India to mark voters.
- The ink is designed to be permanent and hard to remove.
- Election officials are trained to apply the ink effectively on skin and nails.
- The podcast aims to provide informative content for children to satisfy their curiosity.
- Listeners are encouraged to subscribe for more bite-sized educational discussions.

Speaker 1: I am sure your kids have asked you after you have finished voting, why does this not come off? Trust me, I had this question after I have voted for so many years and as a child when I saw my parents vote. Well let me tell you a fun fact. There is only one manufacturer, yes, a sole manufacturer called Mysore Paints and Varnish who actually makes this ink for the Election Commission of India. Yes, it is procured by one sole company.

Speaker 1: This is called the Inelible Ink which means that it is permanent and very very hard to remove. Typically the people from Election Commission of India are trained to use this on the skin and the nail bed so that it becomes next to possible to remove. What are its composition, how does it get procured, how much time do they take to manufacture it and all the little details that you want to discuss over dinner table conversation with your children because trust me, they've asked the right question by asking how does this ink not come off?

Speaker 1: So we need to give them the right answers. And how do you give them the right answers? By subscribing to the I am Not Board podcast on Apple, Spotify or wherever you listen to your podcast. Because we provide bite sized information for little minds and we want to make sure they continue to stay curious.